

Find the smallest common multiple of the two provided parameters that can be evenly divided by both, as well as by all sequential numbers in the range between these parameters.

